Greeks unite for Greek Week

By Dwayne McClellan

"Take a peek at Greek Week," a chance for Greeks to look at themselves and join together in Greek unity, was the theme of last week's Greek Week here at Northwest.

"One of the reasons for Greek Week is that there is always a competitive basis for a lot of Greek activities," said Inter-Fraternity sponsor Jim Wyant. "Greek Week is a unified effort to promote unity, the Greek way of life all over campus as all 11 organizations cooperated together to do things.

The Greeks kicked off the week with a Greek Sing at the Bell Tower on April 11. Each organization sang a song that represented their chapter. Afterwards, 1,000 balloons were released to officially start Greek Week, followed by a picnic at Beal Park.

Tuesday marked the third annual fraternity boxing matches at Lamkin Gymnasium. Coors Brewing Company subsidized the 16-bout event and plaques were given to the individual winners.

"Greek boxing is very successful every year," Wyant said. "This year it was the biggest turnout, we had close to 500 people there. All the proceeds went to United Way."

Wednesday brought the all-Greek dinner, where awards were given out, and an all-Greek party was held later that night.

Dr. Pat McLaughlin, professor of business at Northwest, was the keynote speaker at the dinner. McLaughlin spoke on the Greek system and how it applies to the individual now and in the future.

Robert Montgomery of Alpha Kappa Lambda was named Outstanding Greek Man while Lisa Neal was named Outstanding Greek Woman. Alpha Kappa Lambda fraternity was named Outstanding Fraternity, while Delta Zeta was named Outstanding Sorority. Bob Brown, Delta Zeta advisor, was named Outstanding Sponsor.

"I guess my biggest feeling on winning the Outstanding Greek Man was one of extreme honor and pride," Montgomery said. "It also made me very proud to be a member of Alpha Kappa Lambda and to be able to represent them well on and off campus."

"The men of Alpha Kappa Lambda are very excited and proud to have won the award for Outstanding Greek Fraternity," said AKL President Phil Klassen. "I feel that we've worked very hard in the last year."

"We were glad that we won it," said Lisa Volker, Delta Zeta president. "A lot of the girls are involved in a lot of campus activities. We were a little surprised and excited, as we have done a lot of work with the March of Dimes, Special Olympics and Headstart."

The Maryville Chamber of Commerce decided upon the individuals after applications were submitted to them, Wyant said.

Individuals who were named Outstanding Chapter Members by their organizations were: Mark Wither, Tau Kappa Epsilon; Erle Bennett, Sigma Tau Gamma; Keven Baker, Phi Sigma Epsilon; Klassen, Alpha Kappa Lambda; Glenn Walsh, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Scott Vyskocil, Delta Chi; Leisha Bechmeyer, Alpha Sigma Alpha; Stacey Severson, Sigma Sigma; Sue Pierson, Phi Mu; and Rosalie Teeson, Delta Zeta.

The Greek games scheduled for Thursday were cancelled due to the bad weather.

"Greek week went very well this year," Wyant said. The participation in all activities was more than it has been."

"The Greek dinner was the highlight of the week," Wyant said. "It was an attempt to get all the Greeks together and it was a good time to present the awards."

Brown attends honor conference

It's not often that a person gets a chance to meet the best in their field. But, Linda Brown got her chance and found it very inspiring. Brown is a Sophomore English major at Northwest and was able to attend an undergraduate honors conference in communication arts and sciences April 14th through the 16th. The seventh annual conference held at DePaul University in Greencastle, Indiana, was attended by some of the leaders of the communication field.

Guest speakers included: Robert Avery, Professor of Communications at the University of Utah; Herbert Simons, Professor of Speech at Temple University; and Alan Wools, Professor of Theatre and director of the Theatre Research Institute at Ohio State University.

At the conference, writers got together to discuss each other's papers.

"We sat in groups and discussed how we got our ideas," Brown said. "We talked about the values of our approaches and generalized about how different ideas could be used in other areas that people were in."

Senate drafts library petition

The Committee for Environmental Affairs is drafting a proposal to be submitted to Dr. Charles Koch, head of Owens Library, concerning the extension of library hours during finals week.

Senate member Kevin Hummer made a motion that the library be open continuously from the Sunday before finals week until 5 p.m. the following Friday. The motion was discussed and accepted by the Senate.

Mike Ehrhardt reported that there was still $3,000 to $5,000 left in the fund for appropriation to student organizations and that suggestions were still needed as to how to utilize this balance. As reported in earlier Senate articles, this money will go into the university's general fund if not expended by the end of this semester.

Ehrhardt had previously reported that the remaining balance was closer to $10,000. "I must have misquoted," Ehrhardt said. "I can't give an exact dollar amount until after the meeting next week. There are still a couple of proposals left to vote on next week."

One of these proposals is a request from KIDS, Concerned Individuals Dedicated to Service, for $91.12. The 65-member organization donates personal time and expense to young children from the local Head Start program, said April Treese, spokesperson for the group. Treese said the group recently had a picnic for these children behind Horace Mann School. The group also works to help needy families.

Another proposal slated for discussion next week is a request for $500 from the 27 members of the National Residence Hall Honorary for publicity for the Inter-Residence Council Leadership Conference, to which 13 schools from Missouri, Iowa and Kansas have been invited.

The women's soccer club was granted $100 to be used for new equipment and travel expenses. The club has added two more games to its spring schedule, and membership has increased from 13 to 18 members.

Phi Beta Lambda, the national business fraternity, is sending five of its 13 entrants in the Missouri conference to the national conference in San Francisco. Each of the five honored students must pay $600 each for the conference, the Senate awarded a total of $500 to aid in sending these Northwest representatives to the national conference.

A Beef Box complaint regarding the broken elevator at North Complex will be investigated by the Senate. The letter stated that the broken elevator is in direct violation of the equal access law.

"I was told that the drawback in getting it fixed was cost," said Keith Jackson, hall director for North Complex. "It would cost about $18,000 to fix it, and they just don't have that kind of money."

There will be a breakfast next week between Dr. Robert Bush, vice president for environmental development, and a 25-member group of students composed of five Senate members and five students from each of the four student classifications. There will be no graduate students represented. The 20 students will be selected randomly by a computer, said Senate member Mag Epperson.

The deli is making a profit of $400 per day, Evan Townsend said. Townsend said anyone having a suggestion for the deli should contact him before Monday, April 25.

The Student Senate picnic will be held next Tuesday. President Linda Borgedalen said that anyone wishing to attend the picnic could do so for one dollar. Borgedalen said the location of the picnic will be announced at next week's Senate meeting, held at 6 p.m. in the Stockman Room at the Union.

Tower Queen finalists chosen

The six finalists for the 1983 Tower Queen have been chosen. They are: Darlene Overhue, Brenda Tompkins, Michelle Lambi, Gina Hawk, Roxanna Swaney and April Treese.

The judging for the finalists of the Tower is similar to that of homecoming. IFC member Phil Klausen explained the process.

"On Friday the girls had their pictures taken. Then, on Saturday they went through interviews and were narrowed down from a field of 40 to 6 finalists," Klausen said.

"They were judged on poise, personal appearance, how they carried themselves in the interviews. Also GPA and campus and non-campus activities figured in as well."

"Next Tuesday, the University will vote for their choice of Queen and the winner will be announced at the Tower Dance," Claussen said.

The Tower Queen is a tradition at Northwest that has not been on campus constantly through the years.

"This is the second revised year of the Tower Queen," Klausen explained. "It was a very old tradition at Northwest, but was stopped in 1974 due to lack of student participation. That was just after the Vietnam era and there was a lot of student apathy."

Michelle Lambi, one of the finalists, thought that bringing back the tradition was a good idea.

"It's nice that they brought it back, since it was a campus tradition," Lambi said.

"The interviews (Saturday) were easy, we had to talk to two people and they were real nice."

Lambi said that making finalist was a big surprise to her. Another finalist, Roxanna Swaney, also was surprised by the outcome.

"I was really surprised that I was picked," Swaney said. "I'm really glad to have gotten so far. I do hope I win, a person wouldn't be normal if she didn't. But, I have to be realistic, there are a lot of deserving candidates and I hope the best person wins. It's really been an honor (to be chosen)," she added.

Debaters end 1983 season

Although the debate team ended the season on a down note, the year was viewed as a "very good learning experience," said Dr. Roy Leeper, instructor for the team.

"We worked with a young squad," Leeper said, "and I think they got burned out toward the end of the year." He added that despite the fact that there was only one senior on the team, they still won 60 percent of their matches.

The team participated in 20 tournaments and came away with victories against the University of Northern Iowa, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Iowa State, Nebraska-Wesleyan and Macalester College.

It was at Macalester that the team registered its most impressive victory, Leeper said, and also where Scott Ahrens was named top individual debater for the tournament.

Leeper called Ahrens "one of the best debaters in the Midwest." He added that Ahrens filled the leader position for the team very well. "I'm very pleased with Scott," Leeper said.

Other members of the team throughout most of the season were Erich Steiner, who was Ahrens' partner, Jim Clevenger, Ricky Newport and Ken Artman. All these members won awards at one time or another during the season, Leeper said.

Johnson speaker at Comm. Day

Nicholas Johnson, keynote speaker for Mass Communications Day April 15, said the influence of electronic media on society can add to the quality of life, but it will take time to accept the change and create the right policies to control it.

Johnson, head of the National Citizens Communications Lobby, gave examples of the changes in electronics and the media, as well as his solutions to the problems, during his speech to Northwest students, faculty and many high school students who attended.

Respondents during the speech were NWMSU faculty members Fred Lamer, Roy Leeper and Robert Brown. The speech was moderated by Richard Bayha and sponsored by the Nodaway Valley Bank of Maryville.

Johnson, a native Iowan, said telecommunications makes it possible for him to have a conference in Los Angeles, write his weekly column in Washington, D.C., and shop in New York, all from his home in Iowa City. "With telecommunications we can live anywhere we want," he said.

Another advantage of the new electronics is that you no longer have to sit in front of a television set every night. With video recorders you can live again, Johnson said. "Now you can buy a machine that will watch that machine for you."

It will take a long time, however, for all this new technology to be accepted and work into our lives. "The telephone company is still explaining that a telephone exists 100 years after its introduction," Johnson said.

Children growing up with home computers and video players will have an advantage over their teachers who did not have these things. "These kids will wash over the faculty in future years," Johnson said. He stressed that retraining will be necessary for many people to keep up.

Respondent Roy Leeper asked Johnson to comment on the speech by Mark Fowler, FCC chairman, when Fowler said there is no need for regulation of electronic media. "If one person has the right to censor all 300 cable stations, you might as well just have one station," Johnson said.

The former Federal Communications Commissioner said that some regulation is needed. "The person that owns the programs should not own the distribution," Johnson said. This is necessary to protect the right of access to mass communication for business organizations who want to express their point of view, he said.

Johnson agreed with respondent Fred Lamer about the potential isolation and dehumanization from the use of electronic games and the popular portable stereos with headphones. "A kid goes into the arcade to get away from the real world, then puts on headphones to get away from the arcade," Johnson observed. He jokingly suggested a "reality scanner" as a solution for this problem.

The new electronics do not have to be dehumanizing, Johnson said. "It is for us to use and to choose," he said. "Become informed and don't buy because it's the latest thing, but don't disregard it for that reason either."

The Department of Music at Northwest will present the Tower Choir and University Chorale in their annual Spring Concert Sunday, April 24, at 3 p.m. in the Charles Johnson Theater.

The Tower Choir will perform the repertoire that was used on their recent tour, including compositions by Placini, Schumann and Brahms. A variety of compositions will be featured by the Chorale. Some of these selections include Beethoven, Fleming, Willsher, DeMiero and Berlin. Also, the men's barbershop quartet will be performing. The concert is free and opened to the public.

Band concert scheduled for April 26

The NWMSU Symphonic Band's spring concert will be April 26 at 8 p.m. in the Charles Johnson Theater.

The 86-member band, directed by Al Sergel, will present works including: Alfred Reed's "Jubilant Overture," Richard Wagner's "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral," Owen Reed's "La Fiesta Mexicana," Leonard Bernstein's "Overture to Candide" and John Phillip Sousa's "The Liberty Bell March."

Two soloists will perform during the program. Chris Gibson, instructor of woodwinds at Northwest, will be a featured clarinet soloist performing "Fantasia and Rondo" by C.M. Von Weber. Megan Sheehan, a senior music education major, will perform the "Hummel Trumpet Concerto."

Escape artist to appear

Charlie Myrick, one of the nation's well-known escape artists and a former student at Northwest, will hold a news conference on Monday, April 25, at 10 a.m. in the Lower Lakeview Room of the J.W. Jones Union Building on campus.

Myrick is expected to announce and discuss a national television appearance that will be filmed in early May on the Northwest campus for That's Incredible, a weekly program on ABC television.

The television taping will be a 15 to 20 minute segment on That's Incredible's 1983 fall series and will involve what Myrick calls "the ultimate in escapes."

Everyone is invited to attend.

Barman presents workshop

Dr. Charles Barman, associate professor of science education at Northwest, presented a workshop at the 31st national convention of the National Science Teachers Association in Dallas, Texas.

Joining Barman in the workshop presentation were Dr. Timothy Cooney, faculty member at the University of Northern Iowa, and Dr. John Rusch, faculty member at the University of Wisconsin-Superior.

These three educators have developed a teaching program that examines science-related social issues in junior and senior high school science classes.

The workshop was based on that teaching model. The three science educators also have written a book and numerous articles on teaching social issues.

April 28 is Accounting Day

Northwest's Department of Accounting will hold its annual Accounting Day Thursday in the Ballroom of the J.W. Jones Union Building on campus, said Dr. Edward Browning, department chairman.

Browning said the day is designed to bring to campus professionals in the field of accounting to give currently enrolled Northwest accounting students and other persons a close-up picture of the professional world of accounting.

Five professionals, including four graduates of Northwest, will discuss their perceptions of accounting and answer questions during the day-long event.

Honors assembly held

The 34th annual Honors Assembly was held on April 19 in the Ballroom on the Northwest campus.

Students were recognized for scholastic achievement, leadership, contributions and service to the University.

This year, the ceremony involved many persons who have contributed funds to make possible the awards, persons for whom the awards are named and persons representing donors of awards.

Dr. Morton Kenner, professor of mathematical sciences and head of the division of mathematics and computer science, delivered the keynote address.

Multiple Sclerosis benefit scheduled

Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity's annual Wheelchair Push for Multiple Sclerosis is April 23. The event starts at 6 a.m. here in Maryville and will end in Kansas City at about 7 p.m.

The participants will travel through the residential areas of the towns between Maryville and Kansas City asking for donations. Each person will travel two miles in a wheelchair and then be replaced by another participant.

Mitchell has article published

Dr. Charles Mitchell, Northwest's assistant professor of mathematics, is the author of an article published in the scholarly "School Science and Mathematics," a publication of the School Science and Mathematics Association.

The article is in the April issue and is entitled, "A Unit on Non-Euclidean Geometry." In it, the Northwest professor discusses differences between Euclidean and non-Euclidean approaches of teaching geometry at the middle school level and above.

For Mitchell, who joined the Northwest faculty in 1981, the article is his third in "School Science and Mathematics" in the last three issues.

Swaney wins election

Roxanna Swaney overwhelmingly defeated Randall Lundgren in the race for Student Senate president. Swaney received 528 votes to Lundgren's 183 in the election that was held April 12.

Swaney ran on the Work Party ticket and the party, like Swaney, took the elections by a landslide. Of the 18 elected positions, 13 were from the Work Party, two were from the Organizations United Party ticket and the other three were off the JAWS ticket.

Swaney said that she will strive for more student input on what they feel the most important issues are.

"I think we need more door-to-door canvassing to see what the students want," Swaney said. "I think the students should decide more issues. The more student involvement, the more the administration will listen to their needs."

Swaney said that she would like to change how the students view the Student Senate.

"The Student Senate is looked at as an elitist group," Swaney said. "I don't feel that the Senate is that. I want to make more people aware of what the Student Senate does."

Swaney is an International Finance/French major and comes from Boxholm, Iowa.

In the other election races, Mike Ehrhardt defeated Kevin Hummer for the vice-president spot, Julie Pickering edged out Eileen O'Brien for the secretary position and Hamid Hamedi was narrowly elected to the treasurer's slot. He defeated Jan Sommerfeld by only 21 votes.

Donna Rupell was elected senior class president while Michael Wirtz and Bill Christophor were chosen as senior class representatives.

Representing the junior class will be President Mike Slade and representatives Brian Daniel and Ed Gouldsmith.

The sophomore class president is James Rose and reps for that class will be Tim Beach and Daniel Allen.

Off-campus representatives that were elected are Jill Protzman, Chris Gates, Todd Smith, Joseph Burns and Joseph Gunther.

Also on the ballot was a question on whether the students supported a nuclear freeze. Of the students that voted, 447 were in favor of a nuclear freeze, 250 voted that they were not in favor of a nuclear freeze and 24 voters were undecided.

Tim Beach, who was formerly the freshman class president and was just elected as a sophomore representative, was the person who got the question on the ballot.

"I think it's a symbolic gesture that the students are interested in issues such as these," Beach said.

Beach said he wasn't surprised at the results because of previous spot polling he had done in classes.

"I polled the people in my classes and a fairly large majority came out in favor of a nuclear freeze," Beach said. "The result was pretty much what I expected."

Roxanna Swaney will be the Student Senate President for the 1983-84 school year. Swaney will be a senior next year. (Missourian Photo/Larry Franzen)

Stroller goes to pot

Stroller was the type of guy who never got any respect. He felt that no one liked him. Things were so bad that he had to tie a stake around his neck to get the campus dogs to come near him.

Stroller decided that what he needed was something that set him apart from other people, something that gave him that 'distinguished' look. He decided he would take up smoking a pipe.

Smoking a pipe didn't really do too much to raise Stroller's reputation in the eyes of his peers. He looked about as dignified as a snowman. The tobacco he used smelled worse than a feedlot. Nobody liked to be near the Stroller when he was sucking on the pipe.

"Your Man," said Farlow one day, "I don't want you to smoke your pipe in my room anymore. It makes my clothes smell like a cow."

"Yeah," said Herman, "don't smoke in my room either. The smoke doesn't bother me, but it does bug me when you dump all your used up tobacco into my Nikes."

Stroller always hated Nike shoes anyway. He thought the people who owned them were trying to destroy the English language. After all, you don't call a bike a bikey so why do it with a shoe?

Even Stroller's roommate hated it when he puffed on his pipe. He said it clogged up his sinuses. Stroller was beginning to think his roommate was a pest so he would smoke when he wasn't there and leave. Minutes later his roommate would walk in and his nose would instantly clog up.

Saturday found Your Man out of tobacco. He searched all over his room and came up empty.

"Oh Gosh!" yelled Stroller. "I'm going to die without any nicotine."

He began to crawl around on the floor looking for a few scraps of tobacco. He couldn't find any. Then, he ran out into the hall in search of cigarette butts. He figured he could put the tobacco that was left from them in his pipe. Unfortunately, the janitors had actually cleaned up the floor. The only ones left now were in the toilets. Those were swollen and water-logged.

"I wonder if I should reach in there and grab those butts," said Stroller aloud.

"What are you, some kind of a pervert?" came a reply from somewhere behind the closed toilet stall doors.

Stroller's face turned red and he walked around the corner. He saw Scum attempting to brush his teeth.

"I just can't get the hang of using this stupid toothbrush," said Scum when he spied Stroller coming around the corner. "I brush and brush and my teeth still come out looking green."

"Scum," answered Stroller. "You're hanging on to the brush part. The bristles are supposed to go in your mouth."

"Really!" Scum slammed his hand down on the sink. His toothpaste fell onto the floor. Scum stared at the toothpaste awhile and then said "Now I'm crestfallen."

Stroller ignored Scum's unusually creative pun and asked, "Do you know anybody that has some tobacco for my pipe?"

Scum thought about that question while he spit his toothpaste onto the floor. After being in Scum's mouth, the toothpaste was the same shade of green as his teeth.

"Well," said Scum, after much thought, "my roommate smokes a pipe sometimes and he has a bag of tobacco taped to the back of one of his drawers. He's not here right now, but I'm sure he wouldn't mind if you borrowed a little of it."

"Your roommate really smokes a pipe?" asked Stroller. "I never noticed that."

"Sure," answered Scum, "but he's a little more considerate than you. He sticks a towel under the door so that he won't stink up the whole floor."

Stroller went to Scum's room. There was a little trail dug through all the garbage so that Stroller had no trouble getting to the desk. He pulled out a drawer and there was the tobacco.

"Looks a little green," said Stroller to himself, "must have been back here for a long time."

Stroller considered how much he should take. If he filled his pipe only one time then he would want more. He had nothing to carry any tobacco in.

"Aw, I'll take the whole thing. I'll buy him another bag sometime."

He took the tobacco to his room and filled his pipe. He lit a match, stoked up his pipe and took that first healthy puff.

"Argh, this stuff is harsh!" screamed Stroller.

As Stroller continued to puff on his pipe, a green haze began to fill the room and escape under the door of his room.

An hour later Stroller was having trouble moving. He reached up to turn on the TV and found himself picking his nose. He seemed to have no control over his body. There was a knock on the door. Stroller floated over and answered it. It was Scum's roommate.

"Hey man," said Kevin, which was the name of Scum's roommate. "Did you take some stuff out of my room?"

"Mpphh," said Stroller, whose tongue felt like it was nailed to the roof of his mouth.

"Never mind, I know you did. I'm not mad though. By the way, how much of it did you smoke?" asked Kevin.

Stroller held up the empty bag. "Stroller!" screamed Kevin. "You smoked my whole dime! You owe me!"

Stroller reached into his pocket and pulled out a dime. He offered it to Kevin.

"You jerk, a dime means $10 when you're talking about this kind of stuff."

Stroller looked around his room and finally began to put two and two together. The harsh taste, the funny smell, the fact that a small bag of tobacco cost $10, it all made sense now.

"That wasn't really tobacco was it?" asked Stroller.

"Of course not, Your Man," answered Kevin.

"Oh my gosh!" cried Stroller.

"I'm stoned! I've caught a buzz! What will I do? My parents will kill me! I'll go blind. I'll never be normal again!"

"Calm down, Hero," laughed Kevin. "Nothing is going to happen to you."

"Oh yeah," screamed Stroller. "Tell that to all those people out there in the real world. Now I'm going to become a drug addict. I'll end up shooting up with a rusty needle and die of hepatitis."

"Hero," soothed Kevin. "You won't become an addict. That's the first time that you even smoked the stuff. It's like alcohol..."

"Wait a minute, I'm a self-proclaimed alcoholic," Stroller said.

"Okay," answered Kevin, "maybe that's a bad example. Stroller, if you don't want the stuff you won't need it. It's a free choice."

"You're right," answered Stroller. "Now, how about if I get you a date to take your mind off everything?" asked Kevin.

"What's this date like?" asked Stroller.

"I tell you, Your Man, she's like railroad tracks," said Kevin with a laugh.

"What's that mean?" asked Stroller.

"Think about it a while."

New Bureaucrats deserve chance

Dear Editor:

Every newspaper is entitled to its own opinion. I believe, however, that the Missourian overstepped its bounds in the editorial of the April 15 issue.

I am not totally "pro-student senate," but some members are very dedicated and are trying to improve our campus.

Although they don't always succeed, I don't think the new officers should be criticized before they've even started duties. Give them a chance!

Student Court Criticized

Dear Editor:

This is a follow-up letter to the one you received a while ago dealing with the "student court."

From talking with individuals who have gone before the court, fairness doesn't enter into the decision. So here we have students the same age or younger pronouncing sentence, as they call it, on us the students.

The students of this campus are tired of being treated like grammar school children, especially in this case of the "student court" at the expense of someone's resume.

This university is always so interested in the students voting on how we want things and what is important to us, well then I propose they allow us to vote on if we want the "student court." Then we will pronounce our own sentence.

Ladies and gentlemen, you've just heard the News

The six-piece band, Huey Lewis and the News, filled Lamkin Gymnasium with an hour and a half of music at the spring concert April 19, which was sponsored by Student Union Board.

The concert gave the audience a look at the group's new sound, which is more pop music and more "rock and roll," which is more of our newfound artistic freedom.

Lewis said the sale of their record company, Chrysalis, has left the group's manager unsure of the album. To keep the band's name alive the guys decided to tour the United States.

Last year Huey Lewis and the News toured the United States, Canada, Europe and Japan. "Being on the road is tedious. I'm a vegetarian so eating is tough and travelling is tough. However, the one and a half hour gig on stage is worth the 22 hours on the road," Lewis said. "We were well received in England and Europe," Lewis said.

Besides touring, Lewis formed on MTV, the channel on cable television. "MTV is especially important for new artists. It puts the songs in front of the audience. In an interview before the concert, Lewis felt that the absence of MTV in this area might hurt attendance at the concert because of lack of exposure. This may have been true since approximately 1,000 people attended the concert, said one SUB member that night.

In anticipating the audience reaction, Lewis said, "each audience is really different. It's my job as a performer to call attention to something you are all feeling. However, on a numbers."

the concert, Lewis said his own musical background included a lot of jazz and rhythm and blues. He grew up listening to people like Sam Cooke, Otis Redding and Wilson Pickett. Now, Lewis said, he listens to everyone and everything like Willie Nelson, Hall & Oates, Bob Seger, Prince and Joan Jett and the Blackhearts. "I don't like a lot of rock and roll female artists and I am sexist where rock and roll is concerned. Rock and roll is a macho kind of thing," he said.

The band has won various awards throughout the country. Some of these include best live band, best debut album and most promising new group in Japan. "To play live is what you [a band] are all about," he said. In an interview after the concert, Lewis said, "The crowd response was very good, considering five songs were brand new and the audience had never heard them before."

Mother's Day had difficult birth

One of the most widely celebrated holidays of the year is Mother's Day, celebrated on May 10th. On this special occasion mothers are honored with tokens of appreciation. This is the day that children express their gratitude by sending flowers or candy to their mothers.

According to the American Book of Days the earliest celebration of Mother's Day was the Mother's Day International Association, which was incorporated in 1912.

During the Civil War, it was suggested by Julia Ward Howe, composer of The Battle Hymn of the Republic, that July 4th should be renamed as Mother's Day, but was turned down. After the Civil War, Anna Reeves Jarvis of Grafton, West Virginia, organized a committee to sponsor a Mother's Friendship Day in 1868. Jarvis tried very hard to get Mother's Friendship Day recognized by people all over the world. Many people became interested, but she was not satisfied with her success. It was not until after her death that the popularization of the holiday increased.

On May 9th, 1907, Anna M. Jarvis, daughter of Anna Reeves Jarvis, gathered friends and family members to help in making her mother's dream come true.

Jarvis's daughter was the first to be directly responsible for observance of Mother's Day in the United States. On May 10, 1908, the second Sunday of the month, church services in which mothers were honored were held to show appreciation and gratitude.

Duke of Milan, and Lisa Farnan (Guilford, Missouri) as his daughter Miranda.

As the play opens, the hour has come for Prospero's revenge and his enemies are powerless in his hands. Yet his "nobler reason" overcomes his anger for he knows that "the rarer action is in virtue than in vengeance," and the "sole drift of his purpose" is to lead the evil-doers to confession and repentance. From the moment we first meet the noble Prospero, we know that we are in a world where evil is powerless and even the laws of nature and chance are benign. This is a world of enchantment, shaped of "such stuff as dreams are made on."

The Tempest is unique among the Shakespeare plays. In Hamlet, for example, revenge is a primary duty to be sought even at the cost of the avenger's life. But in The Tempest vengeance yields to mercy, and evil is impotent—even ridiculous in the presence of the compassionate Prospero and the spirit Ariel.

Northwest netters to host conference meet

By Dwayne McClellan

Northwest Missouri State University will be the site of the 1983 Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) men's and women's conference tennis tournament this weekend. The Northwest men are expected to be in a 'Cat and 'Dog fight with Northeast Missouri State for the first place while the women are looked for in the middle of the pack.

On the men's side, Northeast is certainly the favorite in the tournament that they won a year ago at Southeast Missouri State. The Bulldogs will be gunning for their third straight MIAA title; this feat hasn't been accomplished since the Bearcats took the team title from 1973-1977. The 'Cats tied for first in 1972 and won the whole thing in 1971.

"I'd have to say that we are the favorites to win the conference title; however, Southeast Missouri State and Northwest Missouri State are going to be some tough competition this year, said Bulldog coach Dave Swisher in a pre-season outlook at the conference.

Swisher isn't alone in his feelings. Bearcat coach John Byrd thinks that it will be a three team race; but he thinks the 'Cats are a little tougher than Southeast Missouri.

"We feel like that it'll be close for first," Byrd said. "If we play well, we will have a good chance to beat Northeast. I feel strongly that we are better than Southeast. I might be proven wrong but I think that we're the better team."

"Southeast lost to Northeast 8-1 and we lost to Northeast 5-4," Byrd said. "That's got to be indicative of something. Also our number one single player (Tomas Ollestad) defeated the number one player from Northeast (Brian Camel) and the Northeast kid beat the number one single player for Southeast (Bob Curtis).

But Byrd does credit Northeast to having the best number ones doubles team.

"Northeast has the number one doubles team," Byrd said. "They have beaten both us and Southeast."

Other teams participating in the men's side are the University of Missouri-Rolla, University of Missouri-St. Louis and Central Missouri State.

The last few places should go to Rolla University and Missouri-St. Louis and Central while the top three teams duke it out for first.

"If I tried to predict it, that's how I would go," Byrd said.

Lincoln appears to be the favorite in the women's sector, but Southeast is expected to give them a run for their money. But Northwest coach Sue Sugg warns people that any team could be in the running if they are playing right.

"On paper that is the way it looks with Lincoln and Southeast but, in the tournament, whoever is playing well will win," Sugg said.

Besides the top two favored teams, Northeast Missouri, Northwest Missouri, Central Missouri, the University of Missouri-St. Louis and University of Missouri-Rolla will be slugging it out with the best of them.

The women's section is not lacking in stats either. The number ones doubles team of Stacey Gilliam and LaShawn Thomas from Lincoln are back. Also Candice Heinsothe at number one singles is also back.

"Northeast could stay in things as they are strong in the middle," Sugg said. "Lori Davis at number three singles spot joins Lori Harrison at number four singles to give the Lady Bulldogs a one-two punch in the middle."

Despite the power of Lincoln and Southeast, Sugg says her team can't be taken too lightly, but some of their hopes will hinge on Schantz and Lisa Schrader.

"We'd have to be considered the underdog," Sugg said. "But, at any given day we can be up there. But, we have to knock off the top players from Lincoln and Southeast to do that."

"How well we do overall will depend on Jacque Schantz and Lisa Scharder. They've been out with an illness and if they can come back it will help."

Lincoln defeated the 'Kittens earlier this year, 9-0.

Tracksters keep assaulting records

By Pat Lodes

Although the team scores may not have been on the strong side for the Northwest Missouri State men's and women's track teams last weekend, a Bearcat runner qualified for the NCAA Division II Championships, two records fell and some personal bests were recorded.

Jim Ryan turned in a time of 9:12.47 in the steeple chase to qualify for the championships for the third year in a row. Ryan's qualifying time earned him a first-place finish in the event at the Iowa State Invitational Saturday.

The only other Bearcat first-place finish Saturday was the mile relay team. Alan McCrary, James Robinson and the Stillman brothers, Larry and Gene, ran the event in 3:19.88 to finish on top.

Sunday, Charlie White, who qualified for the Division II Championships two weeks ago, broke the NWMSU shot put record that had stood for just eight days. White broke his own record at the Midland College Invitational when he tossed the shot 55-1 1/2.

No teamscores were kept at the invitational in Fremont, Nebraska, but the Bearcat tracksters recorded 10 first-place finishes out of 18 events.

The Bearkitten track and field team competed at the Drake Invitational in Des Moines, IA., Friday and Saturday. The 'Kittens finished ninth in the 10-team event, but broke a school record and turned in a few personal bests.

Sandy Margis broke her own long jump record with a leap of 18-4. Margis bettered her old mark by 4 1/2 inches and finished third in the competition.

Other 'Kitten placers included the 400-meter relay team, third; Dixie Wescott, fifth in the javelin; Deb Cummings, fifth in the high jump; Margis, sixth in the 100-meter dash and Colleen Hobb in the heptathlon.

Personal bests were recorded by three other 'Kittens. Paula Bullard ran the 400-meter hurdles in 1:13, Sherri Reynolds ran the 1,500 meter in 4:59 and Glenda Tibben tossed the shot 36', all personal bests.

"It was a good day for us," said Coach Pam Medford. "I'm proud of the way they performed against the stiff competition."

Both the 'Cats and 'Kittens will be in Warrensburg Friday for the Central Missouri Relays. The Bearcats will then compete in Crete, Nebraska at the Doane Relays, Saturday.

'Cats start to jell in going to top of division

By Pat Lodes

The NWMSU baseball team has found the right path. Last weekend they won three out of four games and Tuesday they swept a twin bill from Central Missouri which vaulted them into the driver's seat in the MIAA in their division.

Last Saturday, the Bearcats went to Kirksville to tangle with the Bulldogs of Northeast Missouri State in a Northern Division doubleheader.

In the first game, the Bearcats jumped to an early lead by scoring one run in the first and four in the second. The run in the first came from Chuck Lynn's fourth homer of the season.

The 'Dogs scored one run in their half of the second and the game stayed at 4-1 until the fifth when the 'Cats scored two more.

A Bulldog attempted comeback in the sixth was halted and the Bearcats went on to win, 7-4.

Tom Funk recorded his first win of the year, pitching 5 1/3 innings, giving up three earned runs and six hits.

"We played real well the first game against Northeast," coach Jim Johnson said. "Tom Funk threw real well."

The second game with the Bulldogs was a different story. The 'Dogs opened the game with five runs in their half of the first and went on to win 10-4.

The bright spot for the 'Cats was again Lynn. He hit his fifth homer of the season and also had three RBI's.

The William Jewell Cardinals came to Bearcat Field Sunday for a doubleheader with the 'Cats. Jewell came into the game with an impressive 19-6 record, but the Bearcats were still worked up over the loss to the Bulldogs the day before. The Bearcats took out their frustration on William Jewell by sweeping the two games 8-7 and 4-1.

"Northeast riled us up," Johnson said. "I thought we'd go 8-0 in the conference. Now we'll just have to go 7-1."

Northwest jumped out to a 7-1 lead after two innings against the Cardinals. Jewell gradually narrowed the margin, until they tied the game 7-7 in their half of the fifth.

In the bottom of the fifth, Steve Phillips single for the 'Cats, stole second, advanced to third on a ground out and scored the winning run on a wild pitch.

Scott Hartema picked up his third win of the season. He threw 2 2/3 innings, allowing just one hit and no runs.

Lynn was two for three, including four RBI's and his sixth homer. Lynn is now just one homer short of both the single season record of seven and the career record of 16.

Todd Frohwirth and Glenn Walsh combined for a five hitter and the Bearcats downed the Cards 4-1 in the second game. Walsh picked up the win, his first of the season. He pitched three innings and allowed just one hit, no runs and three strike outs.

Tuesday, Central Missouri State

hosted the Bearcats and surrendered their first-place spot in the conference standing to the Bearcats.

Tom Funk earned his second win in a row by going all the way in the Bearcats' 8-3 opening game win. Funk allowed just seven hits in seven innings.

Paul England led the Bearcats offensively, going 3-3 and scoring three runs. Jaden Davison was two for three with two RBI's.

Northwest scored once in the second, three times in the fourth and twice in the seventh to down the Mules 6-3 in the second game.

Phillips went 2-3 including a homer and three RBI's.

Walsh gave up just three hits and one earned run over five innings to pick up his second win of the season. Frohwirth picked up his second save.

The Bearcats, now 9-15 overall and 4-1 in the conference, host Central Missouri State Saturday in a twin bill. Gametime is at 1:00 p.m. at Bearcat Field.

Greg Garrison serves one up against William Jewell. The 'Cats beat up the Cardinals as they swept Sunday's twinbill. The 'Cats also swept Central to move into sole possession in the MIAA Northern Division. [Missourian photo/Larry Franzen]

'Kittens use week to make up games

By Alan Cross

Jam packed. That is a good description on what the past week has been for the Bearkitten softball team. The 'Kittens have played seven games in the past week to make up for the games lost due to bad weather.

Here are the scores and some brief highlights from those seven games:

NWMSU-2, Wayne State-0

This was the first game the 'Kittens played in the Missouri Western Softball Invitational that was held Friday, April 15, and Saturday, April 16.

Paula Rutherford extended her scoreless win streak to 22 with the three-hit shutout, her third shutout in a row.

NWMSU-1, MEMSU-3

Northeast Missouri State University got two quick scores in the first inning of the second game in the Missouri Western Invitational and the Bearkittens had to play catch-up for the rest of the game.

Shelly Lewis started the game for NWMSU, but was relieved by Rutherford in the third.

NWMSU-2, Nebraska-Omaha-3

The Bearkittens were knocked out of the tournament on Saturday when the University of Nebraska-Omaha used a strong fourth inning to defeat Northwest.

Rutherford recorded the loss and had her consecutive scoreless inning streak broken in that game, but not before she set a school record with 29 and two-thirds consecutive innings.

NWMSU-3, Simpson College-0

The 'Kittens barely had enough time to take off their cleats from the weekend's action when they clashed with Simpson College in the first game of a hastily arranged doubleheader on Monday, April 11.

Northwest got one run in the first inning on singles by Teresa Gumm and Kathy Schultz and a throwing error by Simpson. Gumm later drove in two runs in the fifth inning with a single.

NWMSU-4, Simpson-3

Teresa Gumm's two-run single in the third inning keyed a Northwest outburst in that inning. The 'Kittens scored once more in that inning and led 3-0 going into the fourth. Momentum then swung Simpson's way as they scored in the fourth, fifth, and finally a homerun that tied the score at three at the bottom of the seventh.

Neither team scored in the eighth inning, but the 'Kittens won it in the ninth.

Lisa Hatcher led off the inning with a triple and scored on a Simpson error on the relay throw. Simpson failed to score and Northwest claimed the extra-inning victory.

Shelly Lewis started for Northwest and pitched eight innings before being relieved by Rutherford.

Teresa Gumm was a pitcher's nightmare in the Simpson doubleheader. Gumm was 4-6 in both contests with a double, a triple and four RBI's.

NWMSU-1, University of Missouri-3

Once again the Bearkittens barely let the mud on their cleats dry before going up against the University of Missouri on Tuesday, April 19. The 'Kittens, however, came up on the short end of the stick.

One bright note for the Bearkittens in the Missouri game, Teresa Gumm collected two hits in the game, a triple and a single.

Gumm's triple was the twelfth of her career, a school record.

The Maryville shortstop now owns five school career records—hits, doubles, triples, RBI's and extra-base hits. She is tied for the school career home run record.

NWMSU-1, CMSU-0

Despite seven hits by the Jennies of Central Missouri State University, they could not score on the Bearkittens and Northwest hung on to the 1-0 victory.

Northwest scored its only run of the game in the very first inning when Karen Hopewell and Teresa Gumm walked, Bev Wimer sent Hopewell to third on a fielder's choice and Kathy Schultz batted Hopewell in on a single to left.

Paula Rutherford set yet another record. This was Rutherford's fifth shutout of the season and broke the previous single-season shutout record set at four by Sheryl Wurster.

Rutherford's ERA also fell to 0.79. At press time, the 'Kittens are playing in Lincoln, Nebraska, and are taking on the Nebraska Cornhuskers in a doubleheader.
